St. Johns County receives Regional Award for Excellence in Planning and Growth Management

The St. Johns County Utility Department was recently awarded the Regional Award for Excellence in Planning and Growth Management by the Northeast Florida Regional Council for their extensive work on the County's Integrated Water Resource Plan (IWRP). The award recognizes individuals, organizations, or specific projects with a primary focus on meeting the planning and growth management needs of communities within the Northeast Florida Region.

"This award represents the dedication and commitment of our Utility's planning, engineering, and operational staff," said Bill Young, St. Johns County Director of Utilities. "By involving all of our internal and external water supply stakeholders, we successfully produced a document of strategies and options to ensure sustainable water supplies to our residents for the next 25 years."

The IWRP provides a road map to implement both short- and long-term water supply solutions through 2040, ensuring sustainability for the rapidly-growing population of St. Johns County. For more information on St. Johns County Utilities and the IWRP, please visit www.sjcfl.us/Utilities.
